

Craig Rosewarne – Wolfpack Information Risk

Craig is the MD of Wolfpack Information Risk - a South African company specialising in cyber research, threat intelligence, training, awareness and advisory services.

Craig has over 18 years of management experience in the fields of IT and cyber security. He is frequently invited to speak at information security, cybercrime and counterespionage events. He provides regular opinion pieces via TV, radio and print/online media.

He is recognised for establishing the Information Security Group of Africa, a section 21 company in 2005 and chairing it for 7 years. He was furthermore invited to take up an EMEA directorship of the SANS Institute - a global leader in the information security and forensics sectors.

Craig was previously an Associate Director of Deloitte's Risk Advisory Division. He ran the Deloitte School of Risk Management and was responsible on a national level for learning and innovation for a team of over 430 professionals.

Craig will be Chairing the discussions